NATO Membership Review

Ensuring Sovereign Defence Policy

Imperialist Nature of NATO

The Workers Party of Britain criticizes NATO as an imperialist bloc led by the US, responsible for numerous conflicts and destabilization efforts worldwide, including in Yugoslavia, Afghanistan, Iraq, Libya, and Yemen. The manifesto argues that NATO's expansion and actions serve the interests of capitalist states and the military-industrial complex, rather than promoting genuine peace and security.

Opposition to NATO and Military Alliances

The party strongly opposes the UK's involvement in NATO, asserting that it undermines the interests of the British working class. They argue that NATO's actions, such as the military support to Ukraine, exacerbate global tensions and conflicts, rather than resolving them through diplomatic means

Critique of Labour Party's Support for NATO

The manifesto criticises the Labour Party's unwavering support for NATO, labeling it as complicit in the alliance's imperialist agenda. The Workers Party highlights that this support aligns Labour with the interests of the ruling class and the military-industrial complex, rather than the working people. They particularly condemn Labour's stance on the Ukraine conflict and its broader military policies

Call for Withdrawal from NATO

The Workers Party advocates for the UK to withdraw from NATO, arguing that such a move would better align with the interests of peace, national sovereignty, and the welfare of the British people. We call for the end of Britain's role in international conflicts perpetuated by NATO and a reorientation towards non-military solutions for global issues and propose a national referendum on this issue.

Campaigns and Rallies

The party has actively participated in and organised rallies and campaigns under the "No2NATO" banner, emphasising their commitment to opposing NATO's influence and actions. These campaigns aim to educate the public and mobilise opposition against the UK's involvement in NATO .

Defence Policy Review

Redefining National Security

NATO Criticism and Opposition

The manifesto criticises NATO as an imperialist and aggressive alliance, primarily led by the United States. It argues that NATO's expansion and military actions serve capitalist interests and have caused significant global instability and conflicts. The Workers Party calls for the UK to withdraw from NATO, advocating for a non-aligned stance focused on peace and diplomacy instead of military alliances .

Defence Policy Review

The manifesto calls for a comprehensive review of the UK's defence policy. This includes reassessing military spending, reducing the reliance on nuclear weapons, and focusing on defensive rather than offensive capabilities. The aim is to ensure that defence policies align with the interests of peace and security, rather than supporting imperialist ambitions

Military Spending and Arms Trade

There is a strong emphasis on reducing military spending, particularly on overseas interventions and arms trade. The manifesto advocates redirecting these funds towards social services and infrastructure projects that benefit the public directly. It criticizes the current government's approach to military spending as excessive and misaligned with the needs of the British people

Humanitarian and Ethical Concerns

The Workers Party highlights the ethical implications of the UK's current defence policies, particularly in relation to arms sales to countries with poor human rights records, such as Saudi Arabia. The manifesto calls for stricter regulations and greater transparency to ensure that the UK does not contribute to human rights abuses and conflicts abroad

Public Involvement and Transparency

The party emphasizes the need for greater public involvement in defence policy decisions. It calls for more transparency and accountability in how defence funds are allocated and how military operations are conducted. This approach aims to align defence policies with democratic values and public interests

Military Engagement Policy

Ethical and Sovereign Military Actions

Ethical Engagement

The Workers Party of Britain advocates for a military engagement policy that prioritises ethical considerations. The party opposes the UK's involvement in unnecessary and unjust conflicts, arguing that military actions should be a last resort and only undertaken when absolutely necessary for national defence.

Ending Imperialist Wars

The party calls for an end to what it terms imperialist wars, such as those in Iraq and Afghanistan. The Workers Party argues that the UK should not participate in wars driven by the interests of other nations or corporations, and instead focus on genuine national defence and international peace efforts.

Focus on Diplomacy

Emphasising the importance of diplomacy and peaceful conflict resolution, the Workers Party advocates for a foreign policy that prioritises diplomatic solutions over military interventions. The goal is to resolve international disputes through dialogue and negotiation, reducing the need for military engagement.

Reducing Overseas Military Presence

The party supports reducing the UK's military presence overseas. This includes withdrawing troops from foreign bases and reducing involvement in international military alliances that commit the UK to conflicts not directly related to its national interests.

Sovereignty and Non-Alignment

The Workers Party advocates for a non-aligned foreign policy, free from the influence of military alliances such as NATO. The party argues that this approach will better serve the interests of peace and national sovereignty, allowing the UK to make independent decisions regarding its military engagements.

Support for Veterans

While advocating for reduced military engagement, the party also emphasises the need to support those who have served. This includes ensuring comprehensive welfare support for veterans, addressing their physical, mental, and social needs.

Support for Soldiers

Comprehensive Welfare for Service Members

Welfare and Care for Soldiers

The manifesto highlights the need for comprehensive support systems for both active service members and veterans. This includes providing mental health services, rehabilitation programs, and ensuring fair pensions and benefits. The focus is on addressing the physical and psychological needs of all military personnel to ensure they receive the care and support they deserve.

Mental Health and Rehabilitation

Significant investment in mental health services tailored to the unique needs of soldiers and veterans is a priority. This includes dedicated facilities and programs offering counselling, therapy, and support for PTSD and other service-related mental health issues. Rehabilitation programs are emphasized to help injured soldiers recover and transition to civilian life effectively.

Fair Pensions and Benefits

Ensuring that military personnel receive fair pensions and benefits is crucial. The Workers Party advocates for improvements to current pension schemes and ensures access to essential services such as housing and healthcare for veterans. This approach aims to adequately compensate military personnel for their service and sacrifices.

Military Housing

The manifesto recognizes the importance of providing high-quality, affordable housing for military personnel and their families. Adequate housing is essential for maintaining the well-being and morale of soldiers. The Workers Party calls for increased investment in military housing, ensuring access to safe, comfortable, and well-maintained accommodation, both on-base and off-base.

Ethical Military Engagement

The manifesto opposes the UK's involvement in unnecessary and unjust conflicts, arguing that military engagements should be a last resort and only for national defence. The Workers Party criticises participation in what it describes as imperialist wars and calls for an end to such engagements. The focus is on ensuring that military actions are justified, ethical, and in the true interest of national security.

Veterans' Care

Lifelong Support for Our Veterans

Mental Health

The Workers Party of Britain advocates for significant investment in mental health services tailored to the needs of veterans. This includes dedicated facilities and programs for PTSD, depression, and other service-related mental health issues to ensure veterans receive the comprehensive care they need.

Physical Health

The importance of providing high-quality rehabilitation services for veterans who have suffered physical injuries is emphasised. This includes ensuring a seamless transition from military to civilian healthcare services and continuous support to help injured veterans recover and maintain their physical health.

Housing and Homelessness

Recognising the housing challenges faced by veterans, the Workers Party calls for increased investment in stable, affordable housing. This includes housing assistance for veterans and addressing homelessness among the veteran population by collaborating with organisations that provide emergency housing and long-term accommodation solutions.

Employment and Transition

The Workers Party supports comprehensive job training and employment assistance for veterans transitioning to civilian life. This includes advocating for better recognition of military-acquired skills in the civilian job market and ensuring veterans have access to job training and placement programs.

Family Support

Acknowledging the unique challenges faced by the families of veterans, the Workers Party supports creating strong support networks for these families. Collaboration with charities like the Royal British Legion is encouraged to provide advocacy and support.

Military Procurement and Domestic Production

Ethical and Efficient Defence Manufacturing

Prioritising Domestic Production

The Workers Party of Britain advocates for prioritising domestic production in military procurement. By supporting UK-based defence industries, the party aims to create jobs, stimulate the economy, and reduce dependency on foreign suppliers. This approach also ensures that military technology and capabilities remain under national control.

Ethical Procurement Practices

The Workers Party emphasises the importance of ethical procurement practices in the defence sector. This includes ensuring transparency and accountability in the procurement process, avoiding deals with countries that have poor human rights records, and prioritising environmentally sustainable practices in defence manufacturing.

Supporting Innovation and Technology

Investing in research and development is crucial for maintaining technological superiority in defence. The Workers Party supports increased funding for defence-related innovation and technology, encouraging collaboration between the government, academic institutions, and private industry to develop advanced defence capabilities.

Reducing Military Spending

The party calls for a comprehensive review of military spending, aiming to reduce excessive expenditures on unnecessary military projects and redirect funds to social services and infrastructure. By cutting down on wasteful spending, the Workers Party seeks to allocate resources more efficiently while maintaining a robust defence capability.

Strengthening Regulatory Oversight

Ensuring robust regulatory oversight of military procurement is a key priority. The Workers Party advocates for stringent checks and balances to prevent corruption and ensure that defence contracts are awarded based on merit and necessity rather than political or financial influence.

Enhancing Supply Chain Resilience

The Workers Party underscores the need to enhance the resilience of the defence supply chain. This includes developing domestic sources for critical components and materials, thereby reducing vulnerabilities and ensuring the continuity of defence production in times of crisis.

Rights to Workers' Control

Empowering Workers in the Workplace

The Workers Party of Britain advocates for enhanced workers' control as a central element of its industrial strategy. These policies reflect the Workers Party of Britain's commitment to empowering workers through greater control and participation in their workplaces, ensuring their interests are represented at the highest levels of company management and in public service administration.

Workers on Boards

The party proposes implementing a system similar to that in Germany, where workers sit on the boards of large companies, have voting rights, and compose half of the supervisory boards. This model aims to give workers a significant say in the management and strategic decisions of the companies they work for.

Representation on Bank of England Board

In addition to advocating for workers' representation on company boards, the Workers Party of Britain also supports the inclusion of worker representatives on the Bank of England board. This ensures that workers' perspectives are considered in monetary policy decisions, reflecting the party's commitment to economic democracy and inclusive governance.

Legislative Support for Workers' Control

The Workers Party is committed to legislating for systems that ensure increased workers' control, maintaining entrepreneurial innovation while solving social and community problems. This includes policies that allow workers and managers, acting under worker representatives' direction, to have the first right to acquire companies and their assets that are at risk of closure or being sold to foreign owners.

Public Sector Participation

In the public sector, the Workers Party aims to develop a strategy for greater democratic participation by trade unions. This approach is intended to ensure the effective maintenance and enhancement of public services, giving workers a stronger voice in how these services are managed and delivered.

Historical Context and Commitment

The manifesto references historical attempts and contemporary proposals to establish workers' control, such as the Bullock Report of 1977 and motions from trade unions. The party sees the implementation of workers' control as part of a broader struggle for working-class power and better pay and conditions.

Improved Wage Structures

Ensuring Fair and Liveable Wages

Raising the Minimum Wage

The Workers Party of Britain calls for significant increases in the minimum wage to ensure that all workers earn a living wage that keeps pace with inflation and the cost of living. The party criticizes the government's reluctance to raise the minimum wage further despite rising living costs and argues that higher wages are essential for reducing poverty and income inequality.

Abolishing Income Tax for Low-Wage Workers

The party advocates for abolishing income tax for low-wage workers by raising the personal tax threshold to £21,200. This policy aims to provide financial relief to millions of low-paid workers, ensuring they take home more of their earnings. This approach would help alleviate financial stress and improve the standard of living for those earning below this threshold.

Fair Pay and Conditions for Public Sector Workers

The Workers Party highlights the erosion of public sector pay over the past decade, noting that many public service workers have seen their real wages decrease significantly. The party supports robust pay increases for public sector workers to restore their purchasing power and ensure fair compensation for their work. This includes addressing the pay disparities and ensuring that pay awards keep pace with inflation and the cost of living.

Addressing Pay Review Bodies' Failings

The party criticises the current pay review bodies (PRBs) for failing to provide fair and independent pay assessments. The Workers Party argues that PRBs have become tools for government-imposed pay restraint, leading to real-term pay cuts for millions of public sector workers. The party calls for reforms to ensure that PRBs operate independently and fairly, or to replace them with genuine collective bargaining mechanisms involving trade unions.

Ensuring Living Wages for All

The Workers Party of Britain supports the implementation of a living wage for all workers, which is calculated based on the actual cost of living. This includes ensuring that all employers pay wages that allow their employees to meet their basic needs without financial hardship. The party advocates for the living wage to be set and adjusted regularly to reflect changes in living costs.

Support for Trade Unionism

Strengthening Worker Representation

Encouraging Union Membership

The Workers Party of Britain encourages its members to remain active in or join trade unions. The party sees union membership as crucial for organising workers and fighting for better wages and conditions. Active participation in unions is promoted to strengthen the workers' movement.

Independence from Political Parties

The party supports the disaffiliation of trade unions from the Labour Party. They argue that unions should focus solely on the interests of their members without political interference, ensuring that union activities are directed towards improving workers' conditions rather than supporting political agendas.

Right to Strike

The Workers Party strongly opposes the Strikes (Minimum Service Levels) Act 2023, viewing it as an anti-worker law. The party supports the Trade Unions Congress (TUC) in condemning this legislation and actively participates in protests against it. They believe that the right to strike is essential for securing better conditions and fighting exploitation.

Legislative Reforms

The party is committed to advocating for legislative reforms that strengthen trade unions' rights and protections. This includes ensuring that unions can effectively represent their members without facing political or legal obstacles. The party aims to expose and address the failings of the Labour Party in supporting trade unions.

Solidarity and Collective Action

The Workers Party emphasises the importance of solidarity and collective action among workers. They support the use of strikes and other forms of collective bargaining to resist exploitation and improve working conditions. The party believes that unity among workers is essential for achieving significant improvements in labour rights.

Nationalization of Key Industries

Public Ownership for Public Good

Energy Sector

The Workers Party of Britain advocates for the nationalisation of the energy sector, arguing that it is too vital to be left in the hands of private companies. They propose bringing the big five energy retailers into public ownership, estimated to cost under £2.85 billion.

Oil Revenues

The party supports adopting a petroleum policy similar to Norway's, taxing oil giants at higher rates and investing in renewable energy through a state-owned company, which would boost the economy, create jobs, and return profits to the public.

Water Utilities

The party calls for the nationalisation of water companies, highlighting the inefficiencies and debt accrued since privatisation in 1989. The party points to the significant financial burdens placed on consumers and the environmental mismanagement by private water companies. By bringing water utilities back into public ownership, the party aims to ensure better service, environmental sustainability, and fair pricing.

Transport Services

The Workers Party advocates for the re-nationalisation of the entire public transport system, including railways. They argue that privatisation has failed, leading to high fares, poor service, and underinvestment. By nationalising the transport system, the party aims to provide affordable, efficient, and environmentally sustainable transport options. Profits would be reinvested into the system to improve services and reduce costs for passengers.

Addressing Climate Goals

Nationalisation is also seen as a critical step in achieving net zero emissions. Public ownership of key industries such as energy, water, and transport would allow for more coordinated and effective policies to reduce carbon emissions and promote sustainability. The party believes that only through public ownership can the necessary investments and regulatory measures be implemented to meet climate targets.

Pensions and Retirement

Secure and Dignified Retirement for All

Opposing Pension Age Hike

The Workers Party of Britain opposes raising the state pension age from 66 to 68. They argue this change would disproportionately impact working-class individuals, particularly those with health issues or caring responsibilities. The party advocates for tax reforms targeting the wealthy to fund better pension provisions.

Miners' Pension Fund

The party denounces the government's handling of the miners' pension fund, criticising the appropriation of a large portion of its surplus. They call for returning the £1.2 billion taken and stopping further government appropriation, aiming to increase average weekly pensions for miners from £84 to £98.

Dignified Retirement for Workers

The Workers Party supports the right to a decent pension and dignified retirement for all workers. They highlight struggles faced by workers losing final-salary pension rights, such as the Nissan workers in Sunderland, and stand in solidarity with those fighting to protect their pension entitlements.

Comprehensive Pension Reforms

The party advocates for comprehensive pension reforms to ensure financial security for all retirees. This includes better protection against pension fund mismanagement and enhancing state pension provisions to prevent elderly poverty. The party emphasises the need for a robust state pension system as a safety net for all citizens.

Prevention of Exploitation of Workers

Protecting Workers from Exploitation

Surplus Value Extraction

The Workers Party of Britain addresses the issue of surplus value extraction, where capitalists profit from the unpaid labour of workers. They advocate for policies ensuring workers receive the full value of their labour, aiming to eliminate exploitative practices inherent in capitalism.

Workers' Control

The party supports greater workers' control within businesses. This includes advocating for worker representation on company boards, similar to the German model, where workers have voting rights and a significant role in supervisory boards. This approach aims to mitigate exploitation by giving workers a voice in management and strategic decisions.

Right to Work

The Workers Party emphasises the right to meaningful work. They advocate for policies ensuring all able-bodied workers have access to employment opportunities, reducing the pressure to accept exploitative wages and conditions. The right to work is seen as fundamental to ensuring workers' dignity and financial security.

Fair Wage and Employment Practices

The party calls for strict regulations to ensure fair wages and employment practices. This includes opposing zero-hour contracts and other precarious employment arrangements that exploit workers. They advocate for robust legal protections to ensure all workers receive fair pay and job security, reducing the risk of exploitation

Legislative Reforms

The Workers Party seeks comprehensive legislative reforms to protect workers' rights and prevent exploitation. This includes stronger enforcement of existing labour laws and new regulations addressing modern forms of exploitation, such as gig economy practices. The party aims to create a legal framework that prioritises workers' welfare over corporate profits.

Fire and Rehire Practices

The Workers Party opposes the practice of fire and rehire, where companies dismiss employees only to rehire them on worse terms. They support legislation to ban this practice, viewing it as a means of undermining workers' rights and reducing job security.

Collective Bargaining and Solidarity

The party underscores the importance of solidarity and collective bargaining. They support strengthening trade unions and encourage workers to organise and advocate for their rights collectively. By enhancing the power of trade unions, the Workers Party believes workers can better resist exploitative practices and secure fairer employment terms.

Social Housing

Providing Safe and Affordable Homes

Massive Investment in Social Housing

We advocate for a massive social housing project as an urgent economic necessity. This involves significant investment in building new social housing units to address the chronic shortage and meet the needs of the population, ensuring that everyone has access to decent and affordable housing.

Protecting Social Housing Stock

We are committed to protecting existing social housing stock from being sold off or diminished. This includes reversing policies that have led to the erosion of social housing availability and ensuring that current stock is maintained and improved to high standards.

Affordable and Secure Housing

We believe in providing decent, affordable, and secure housing for all. This means ensuring that housing costs are manageable for all income levels, and that tenants have security in their homes without fear of eviction or exploitation by landlords.

Tenant Control and Empowerment

We support increased tenant control of council housing through the Tenant Managed Housing Co-op model. This approach empowers communities, giving tenants more say in the management and maintenance of their homes and ensuring that their needs and concerns are addressed effectively.

Expropriation of Unused Land

We propose the compulsory expropriation of all unused land banks and fast-tracking permits to build new social housing. This policy aims to address the shortage of available land for housing development and ensure that unused land is put to productive use for the benefit of the community.

Ending Sub-Standard Buy-to-Let Practices

We aim to end the prevalence of sub-standard buy-to-let properties as the default housing option for many. This involves ensuring that properties meet high standards and providing the right to buy or transfer such assets to local authorities to improve housing quality and availability.

Community and Rural Housing Development

We advocate for freeing up land and property for social development, with a focus on supporting workers and trade unions to acquire collectively-owned land and property. This includes promoting affordable housing for rural and coastal workers and encouraging the development of community spaces for rest and relaxation.

Housing for Vulnerable Groups

Ensuring Housing Security for All

Protecting Vulnerable Renters

We are committed to protecting vulnerable renters from eviction, particularly in light of the ongoing cost of living crisis. With rising rents and other living costs, many low-income households face the threat of eviction and subsequent homelessness. We advocate for increasing housing benefits to cover realistic rent costs, ensuring that vulnerable renters can afford their accommodation and avoid the devastating impact of eviction.

Support Services for Vulnerable Groups

We support the provision of vital services for vulnerable groups, such as the One Stop Shops that assist people in accessing housing benefits and other public services. These services are crucial for individuals who cannot access support online or do not speak English as their first language. We oppose cuts to these services and advocate for maintaining and enhancing support for vulnerable community members.

Decent and Secure Housing

We believe in providing decent, affordable, and secure housing for all, including the most vulnerable populations. This includes ensuring that housing meets high standards and is free from sub-standard conditions that can lead to health problems. Our policy aims to protect tenants from exploitation by landlords and provide them with secure and quality housing options.

Addressing Homelessness

We are dedicated to addressing homelessness by ensuring that vulnerable individuals, including veterans and those with mental health issues, have access to safe and secure housing. This involves providing comprehensive support services to help individuals transition from homelessness to stable housing and addressing the root causes of homelessness through targeted interventions.

Right to Buy

Balancing Home Ownership and Social Housing Needs

Maintaining Social Housing Stock

We are committed to maintaining and expanding social housing stock. While the Right to Buy scheme has allowed many to own their homes, it has also reduced the availability of social housing. We advocate for policies that ensure sold properties are replaced to maintain the stock of social housing.

Restrictions on Right to Buy

To protect the availability of social housing, we propose implementing restrictions on the Right to Buy scheme. This includes measures to ensure that properties sold under the scheme remain affordable and are not quickly resold at market rates, which diminishes the stock of affordable housing.

Local Authority Involvement

We believe that local authorities should have greater control over the Right to Buy scheme. This includes the power to decide whether or not to sell properties and to set conditions that ensure the sustainability of local social housing stocks.

Investment in Replacement Housing

We support policies that require the reinvestment of proceeds from Right to Buy sales into building new social housing. This ensures that the stock of affordable housing is not diminished and that there are sufficient homes available for those in need.

Tenant Support and Empowerment

We advocate for increased tenant support and empowerment in the Right to Buy process. This includes providing clear information and assistance to tenants considering purchasing their homes, ensuring they are fully informed of their rights and the long-term implications of buying their property.

Use of Land

Productive and Equitable Land Use

Productive Use of Land

We advocate for the productive use of all land in the UK. This means requiring demonstrable proof that land is being used for socially productive purposes, such as agricultural production, housing, infrastructural development, shared heritage, natural wilderness, or parkland with easy access for workers and their families.

National Parks and Woodlands

We are committed to the preservation of national parks, woodlands, meadows, and other ecological treasures. These areas should remain accessible to the public, ensuring that they are maintained for the enjoyment and benefit of all.

Expropriation of Unused Land

We propose the compulsory expropriation of all unused land banks. This includes fast-tracking permits to build new social housing and other essential infrastructure. Ensuring that unused land is put to productive use is vital for addressing housing shortages and supporting community development.

Community and Rural Housing Development

We support freeing up land and property for social development, particularly in rural and coastal areas. This includes promoting affordable housing for workers and encouraging the development of community spaces that support local needs.

Urban and Village Preservation

We are committed to preserving the character of small towns and village neighbourhoods within urban areas. This involves ensuring that new developments respect the existing community structures while providing necessary social housing and infrastructure.

Regulation of Buy-to-Let

Ensuring Tenant and Community Interests Over Financial Gains

Addressing Sub-Standard Housing

We aim to end the prevalence of sub-standard buy-to-let properties as the default housing option for many. Ensuring that properties meet high standards and are safe for tenants is a priority. This includes implementing stricter regulations and inspections to guarantee that rental properties are well-maintained and habitable.

Right to Buy or Transfer to Local Authorities

We support policies that facilitate the right to buy or transfer sub-standard buy-to-let properties to local authorities. This approach ensures that properties which fail to meet quality standards can be improved and managed by local councils, providing better housing options for tenants.

Protecting Tenants' Rights

We advocate for stronger protections for tenants in buy-to-let properties. This includes ensuring fair rental agreements, protecting tenants from unjust evictions, and providing legal support to uphold their rights. By enhancing tenant protections, we aim to reduce exploitation and improve living conditions.

Encouraging Long-Term Tenancies

Our policy includes promoting long-term tenancies to provide tenants with greater stability and security. Encouraging landlords to offer longer lease terms helps reduce the uncertainty and disruption associated with short-term rentals, benefiting both tenants and communities.

Landlord Responsibilities

We support increased responsibilities for landlords to ensure they provide safe and decent housing. This includes mandatory maintenance and safety checks, as well as clear accountability for meeting housing standards. Landlords who fail to comply with these responsibilities should face significant penalties.

Community Impact

We believe in assessing the community impact of buy-to-let practices. Policies should consider how large concentrations of rental properties affect local communities, including the availability of affordable housing for owner-occupiers and the overall quality of neighbourhoods.

Fast-tracking Planning Permissions

Efficiently Addressing Housing Needs

Streamlining the Process

We advocate for the fast-tracking of planning permissions to accelerate the development of essential infrastructure, particularly social housing. This involves simplifying and expediting the approval process for construction projects that address critical needs.

Addressing Housing Shortages

Fast-tracking planning permissions is seen as a vital measure to combat the severe housing shortage. By reducing bureaucratic delays, we aim to ensure that new housing developments can proceed swiftly, providing much-needed homes for the population.

Use of Unused Land

We support the compulsory expropriation of unused land banks, ensuring that these lands are put to productive use. Fast-tracking planning permissions for these areas can help transform vacant land into valuable community assets, such as affordable housing and public amenities.

Community Involvement

While advocating for a quicker planning process, we also emphasise the importance of community involvement. Local residents and stakeholders should have a say in the development projects that affect their areas, ensuring that the outcomes align with community needs and preferences.

Balancing Development and Environment

We are committed to ensuring that expedited planning does not compromise environmental standards. All fast-tracked projects must adhere to stringent environmental regulations to protect natural habitats and promote sustainable development.

Overriding Planning Constraints

Removing Barriers to Housing Development

Massive Social Housing Programme

We will begin a programme of social housing that will override all unnecessary planning constraints. This initiative is aimed at addressing the housing crisis by accelerating the development of essential housing infrastructure.

Compulsory Expropriation of Unused Land

We propose the compulsory expropriation of all unused land banks to ensure they are put to productive use. This policy aims to fast-track permits and utilise vacant land for social housing and other community needs.

Streamlining Planning Permissions

To facilitate quicker development, we support the fast-tracking of planning permissions. This involves simplifying the approval process for construction projects, particularly those addressing critical housing shortages.

Balancing Development and Community Needs

While prioritising the removal of unnecessary planning constraints, we also emphasise the importance of community involvement. Local residents should have a say in development projects to ensure that the outcomes align with their needs and preferences.

Community Involvement in Planning

Empowering Communities in Development

Local Authority and Community Control

We believe in returning significant control of planning and development to local authorities and communities. This includes involving local residents in decision-making processes to ensure that development projects reflect the needs and desires of the community.

Transparent Planning Processes

We advocate for transparent planning processes that involve community input at every stage. This ensures that local voices are heard and that development projects benefit the community as a whole.

Empowering Local Residents

Our policy includes empowering local residents to have a say in how their communities are developed. This could involve setting up community advisory boards and ensuring that residents are informed and consulted about potential developments.

Balancing Development with Community Needs

While promoting development, we emphasise the importance of balancing it with the needs of the community. This includes protecting green spaces, preserving the character of neighbourhoods, and ensuring that new developments provide tangible benefits to existing residents.

Support for Local Initiatives

We support local initiatives that involve the community in planning and development. This can include community-led housing projects, local business development, and other initiatives that promote local engagement and benefit

This policy is aimed at making higher education accessible to everyone, regardless of their financial situation.

Early Childhood Education

We emphasise the importance of early childhood education and support providing free nursery education. This approach aims to give all children a strong start in life, building their confidence and laying the foundation for future learning.

Free School Meals

We call for expanding free school meal provision for all children. Ensuring that children have access to nutritious meals at school is essential for their health and academic success.

Free School Transport

We support free school travel for all children. This policy aims to reduce the financial burden on families and ensure that all students can attend school regularly, improving overall attendance and educational outcomes.

Funding for Education

We are committed to redirecting funding to support education. Increased investment in primary, secondary, and higher education will ensure that all students have access to high-quality learning environments and resources

Vocational and Technical Training

Preparing for the Workforce

Investment in Vocational Education

We advocate for increased investment in vocational education and training (VET) programmes to equip individuals with the skills needed for the workforce. This includes partnerships with industries to provide practical training opportunities, ensuring that vocational education is relevant and up to date with industry needs.

Bridging the Skills Gap

Our aim is to address the skills gap in the labour market by promoting vocational education as a viable alternative to traditional academic routes. We believe that vocational training can help close the gap between industry needs and available skills, making it easier for employers to find qualified workers and for workers to find stable employment.

School-to-Work Transition

Vocational education provides a smoother transition from school to work. By focusing on specific skills and trades, vocational programmes can prepare students directly for the job market, reducing the time and cost associated with more traditional academic education paths.

Enhancing Employment Prospects

We support the idea that vocational education improves employment prospects. It provides students with hands-on experience and practical skills that are directly applicable to their chosen fields. This practical approach not only enhances employability but also ensures that graduates are job-ready from day one.

Reducing Educational Inequality

Promoting vocational and technical training helps to reduce educational inequality. By offering diverse educational pathways, we can cater to different learning styles and interests, ensuring that all students have the opportunity to succeed regardless of their academic inclinations.

Supporting Lifelong Learning

We believe in the importance of lifelong learning and advocate for the continuous development of vocational skills. This includes providing opportunities for adults to retrain and upskill throughout their careers, ensuring that the workforce remains adaptable and resilient in the face of changing economic conditions.

Worker and Community Involvement in Education

Collaborative and Inclusive Education

Increased Local Involvement

We advocate for greater involvement of local communities in the education system. This includes allowing parents, teachers, and local residents to have a say in how schools are managed. By involving the community, we aim to create a more inclusive and responsive education system that meets the unique needs of each area.

Worker Representation

We support the idea of worker representation in educational institutions. This includes having teachers and support staff participate in decision-making processes, ensuring that their insights and experiences help shape educational policies and practices.

School Governance

We propose reforms to school governance structures to include more voices from the community and the workforce. This could involve creating advisory boards or committees that include teachers, parents, and community members who can provide input on school management and curriculum decisions.

Collaboration with Unions

We believe in strengthening the collaboration between schools and trade unions. Unions play a crucial role in advocating for the rights and interests of educators and support staff. By working closely with unions, we can ensure that the workforce is supported and that their professional needs are met.

Empowering Students

We support initiatives that empower students to have a voice in their education. This includes encouraging the formation of student councils and other representative bodies that allow students to participate in school governance and decision-making processes.

Community-Based Education Initiatives

We advocate for community-based education initiatives that address local needs and leverage local resources. These initiatives can include after-school programs, adult education classes, and vocational training tailored to the specific needs of the community.

Curriculum Reform

Relevant and Inclusive Learning

Inclusive and Relevant Curriculum

We advocate for a curriculum that promotes critical thinking, creativity, and practical skills, preparing students for both the workforce and active citizenship. This includes incorporating the history and contributions of the working class into the curriculum to provide a more balanced and inclusive education.

Vocational Focus

Our policy includes increased respect for vocational work, expressed through practical skills education in areas such as digital labs, scientific method, hands-on engineering, food preparation, music, art, and human biology. Sharing facilities between schools to build capacity for practical experience will increase students' personal confidence and value to the community.

Critical and Analytical Thinking

We support an education based on critical and analytical thinking, honest study of national and imperial history, questioning of authority, and problem-solving. This includes exploring educational models that reduce the emphasis on examinations at age 16, allowing students more time to develop a range of skills and knowledge.

Local and Community Authority

We believe in returning school governance to local authorities, ensuring that local communities have a say in how schools are run. This includes voting for representatives on local education committees to promote accountability and responsiveness to community needs.

Enhancing Worker Rights in Education

We advocate for strengthening collective bargaining rights for educators and support staff. This includes supporting trade unions and ensuring that workers in education have a strong voice in negotiating their terms of employment, wages, and working conditions.

Job Security

We are committed to ensuring job security for all educational workers. This includes opposing practices like fire and rehire, which undermine job stability and exploit workers. We believe that educators and support staff deserve stable and secure employment to perform their roles effectively.

Fair Pay and Conditions

We call for fair pay and improved working conditions for all workers in the education sector. This includes advocating for competitive salaries that reflect the importance of their work and ensuring safe and supportive working environments.

Professional Development

We support continuous professional development for educators and support staff. Providing opportunities for ongoing training and development helps to improve the quality of education and ensures that workers can advance in their careers.

Participation in School Governance

We believe that educators and support staff should have a meaningful role in school governance. This includes voting for representatives on school boards and local education committees to ensure that their perspectives are included in decision-making processes.

Gender Representation

The education sector is predominantly female, with 74% of the teaching workforce being women, and even higher percentages in specific roles such as teaching assistants (93%) and administrative support (90%). Ensuring that these female-dominated roles have strong representation and rights is crucial for gender equity in the workplace.

Community Authority

We believe in returning school governance to local authorities, ensuring that local communities have a say in how schools are run. This includes voting for representatives on local education committees to promote accountability and responsiveness to community needs.

We prioritise the rights of parents in the educational process. The state should support parents by providing the material conditions and services that allow children to flourish while respecting the parents' role in giving their children a moral and cultural framework.

Student Empowerment

We support initiatives that empower students to have a voice in their education. This includes encouraging the formation of student councils and other representative bodies that allow students to participate in school governance and decision-making processes.

Teacher Participation

We advocate for the meaningful involvement of teachers in school governance. Educators should have a significant role in shaping educational policies and practices, ensuring their professional insights and experiences are considered in decision-making.

Local and Community-Based Initiatives

We support community-based education initiatives that address local needs and leverage local resources. This can include after-school programmes, adult education classes, and vocational training tailored to the specific needs of the community.

Educational Localism

We believe in a national non-selective education system with full funding directed more to low-achieving areas to level up outcomes between classes. This approach includes ending the charitable status of private schools and integrating them into the public education system once public schools prove they can deliver better outcomes.

Support for Continuing Education

Promoting Lifelong Learning

Lifelong Learning

We advocate for making lifelong learning a cornerstone of our education system. This involves providing continuous opportunities for adults to retrain and upskill throughout their careers, ensuring that the workforce remains adaptable and resilient in the face of changing economic conditions.

We support the expansion of adult education programs to offer a wide range of courses and qualifications. This includes both formal education and informal learning opportunities that cater to diverse interests and career goals. These programs aim to empower individuals to continue their personal and professional development at any stage of life.

Flexible Learning Options

To accommodate the needs of adult learners, we propose the implementation of flexible learning options. This includes part-time courses, evening classes, and online learning platforms that allow individuals to balance education with work and family commitments.

Funding for Continuing Education

We are committed to increasing funding for continuing education initiatives. This includes providing financial support for individuals seeking to pursue further education, ensuring that cost is not a barrier to lifelong learning.

Collaboration with Employers

We believe in fostering strong partnerships between educational institutions and employers. By collaborating, we can ensure that continuing education programs are aligned with the needs of the job market, providing relevant skills and knowledge that enhance employability.
